

Women's Rights in Marriage from the Viewpoint of Shahid Sani and Muhagheh Ardabili

Pezhman BARZALI (Pezhmanbarzali@yahoo.com)

Nader MOKHTARI AFRAKATI (Dr_mokhtariafra@yahoo.com)

Fereshte EBRAHIMABADI (Fereshteebrahimabadi@gmail.com)

Abstract

Marriage always creates rights and duties for couples; But the excessive emphasis on the "right", which is one of the achievements of this century, caused the marriage rights of the wife to be identified and to prevent these issues, Meanwhile we are looking for answers to this key question; essentially What kind of rights will a woman have in her marital life ; Using the descriptive analytical method, we find that, firstly, the rights of a wife are determined by marriage in one of the categories of "financial rights", "social rights", "emotional rights" and "religious rights" That the scope of each of these rights, according to dignity, Social status can be in change, Also, if a woman tends to increase her wages due to marriage, she can take advantage of the general rule of the contractual provisions of the marriage contract, And some of these rights, which are due to marrying women, Upon completion or dissolution of the marriage will be eliminated.

Keywords:

Marriage, Wife's rights due to marriage, Comparative study of Shahid Sani's and Ardebili's scholarship